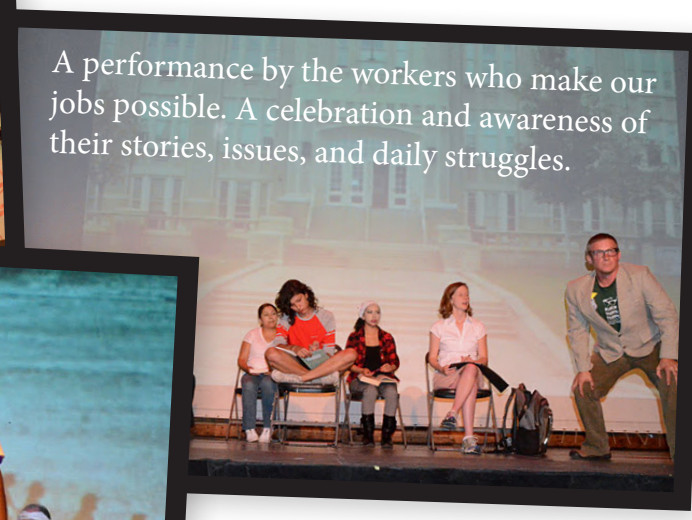
AURARIA CUSTODIANS TELL THEIR STORIES



November 10 at 2 p.m.

Science Building

1067 Auraria Campus, Denver

A play organized by:

ROMERO THEATER TROUPE
Social Justice Through ORGANIC THEATER

Colorado WINS

COLORADO JwJ

The Romero Theater Troupe uses organic theater as a tool to empower people to share their struggles. We are an all-volunteer, community-based theater group that operates entirely on the support of the community. We are named after Salvadoran archbishop Oscar Romero, assassinated in 1980 for speaking truth to power.

Colorado Jobs with Justice is a coalition of labor, community, faith, and student organizations that come together in the struggle for social and economic justice. We work to advance the rights of ALL working people and empower communities to work together for positive social change.

Politically Active Ztudents (PAZ) is an Auraria Campus student organization focused on fighting for the rights of immigrants, refugees, people of color, and LGBTQ communities. Their focus also includes education and building bridges with other movements to create social justice, change and equality.

Collective for Social Change is a group dedicated to social justice dialogue and spirit. They are focused on collaborating with activists, artists, academics and organizers from campus and the community to celebrate and bring awareness to a fostering culture of social justice.

Colorado Workers for Innovations and New Solutions (WINS) represents more than 31,000 state employees who provide critical services in Colorado to a growing population of more than 5 million citizens. State employees can be found in every legislative district as community members and service providers.